

Bev Wann, M.Ed., PCC, is a leadership coach with over 30 years' experience offering coaching, consulting, and training to leaders in purpose driven organizations around the globe. She is committed to developing leaders—at all levels—so that they can effectively build committed teams, lead transitions, enhance their personal resilience and fulfillment, and create durable change. Her clients include leaders in medical centers, universities, government agencies, and nonprofits.

As a former adjunct faculty member at the Federal Executive Institute, Bev continues to offer her services to senior government leaders. In recent years she has provided leadership development courses and coaching for USAID (U.S. Agency for International Development) staff in the U.S. and in twelve other countries.

Bev is certified as a Professional Certified Coach (PCC) through the International Coach Federation (ICF) and as a Somatic Leadership Coach through the Strozzi Institute. Her approach engages the mind as well as the wisdom of the heart and body, and integrates years of training and experience in mindfulness, personal resilience, Appreciative Inquiry, somatic leadership, and racial awareness and healing.

She delights in hiking, traveling, gardening, and spending long stretches of time in the natural world.
